HOLIDAY REPORT

It was a good vacation. We loafed in the sun, dug in the garden when the spirit moved us and it was not too hot, and busied ourselves happily with the household odds and ends that had accumulated towards just such a time as vacation time. Best of all, we enjoyed the pleasures of being outside and re-discovering the beauty of the wind-swept fields and hills, and the brown

Furthermore, we are richer by two new acquaintances which we would never have met were it not for vacation. One was a turtle, a dignified old fellow, and the other was a wren, a pert little creature with the sweetest song we have ever heard. We met the turtle one hot afternoon when he was sunning himself on the concrete ledge below the dam at Fairy Lake. We spent many a pleasant hour after our first meeting, our elbows hooked over the rail of the Water St. bridge, speculating on the advantages of being a turtle and being able to sit under a waterfall all day. As for the wren, it awakened us each morning from its perch on the ridge-pole below the window. And each morning we wondered anew that so much music should come from such a small throat.

We are a bit worried now, with the vacation over, whether we will lose our two new friends. For like the great part of mankind, we forget the pleasures we learn in idleness when once we return to our daily occupations. The turtle and the wren have no part in daily routine. They neither sow nor do they reap in the conventional manner and consequently have no virtue to commend them to this hustling age unless it be this, that in the memory of their existence we remember how wide is the world that lies beyond our ken and in that memory, see ourselves in a truer perspective.

THE RASPBERRY PATCH

Life behind a desk has many compensations but it does not provide the equipment for successful digging. Still, we really have nothing to complain about. The blisters have faded and left a suggestion of the callouses of one who works with his hands, enough so that we can point to them with pride; and the raspberry patch on which we exercised our poor talents does show some signs of improvement. We are out of pocket, however, the cost of a bottle of liniment which was applied to aching shoulders, and the sunburn -less said the better.

But not to be reckoned with such tangible profits and losses was the immense satisfaction of physical labor and the sweat of it. We read long ago of a philosopher who kept a potato patch for no other purpose than to work in it. And while scorning all other attachments, the philosopher's special prerogative, he was most possessive of his potato patch and threatened the life and limb of any who ventured near it. For. he said, it was only while in his potato patch, working with his hands, that he was able to achieve the detachment of mind so necessary to a thoughtful consideration of the universe in all its glory.

Yet at the other end of the scale is unremitting physical toil, deadening in its fatigue the finer instincts that separate man from beast. How real to him who must labor thus is the truth of Markham's poem, The Man with the Hoe.

"What to him Are Plato and the swing of the Pleiades? What the long reaches of the peaks of song. The rift of dawn, the reddening of the rose?"

But these are extremes, the philosopher and the slave, and there is room for neither in the raspberry patch. The raspberry patch is exclusive, specially reserved for those of us whose muscles having slept comfortably behind a desk all winter are called now to action by the warmth of the summer sun and the sheer pleasure of being out doors and digging.

W.P.T.B.

A pleasure enjoyed during our vacation was a visit by our cousin and his wife from the United States. He has just completed four years of intensive medical training under army jurisdiction and is now on leave while he completes his interneship at a Chicago hospital.

It is always enlightening to talk to someone from another country even though that country is so similar to ours. The visitor is able to find so much worthy of appreciation in what we have taken for granted. For example, he helped us realize again what a fine job has been done in controlling prices in Canada as he exclaimed over the difference between the prices in the United States and here. During his visit, we lunched in a Toronto restaurant. The cost for each was less than a dollar. He told us that in Philadelphia, the same meal would have cost over two dollars and the portions would have been less.

We had thought that the Office of Price Administration, the agency in the United States which had been created to perform the same function as the Wartime Prices and Trade Board here, had had the same success as the W.P.T.B. From our cousin's description it was apparent that the O.P.A. had neither the same achievement nor did it enjoy the same confidence as the W.P.T.B. He said that the O.P.A. was looked upon with suspicion by the citizens and was continually criticized for its inefficiency.

It is true in Canada that in some fields, prices have risen high above their pre-war levels. The cost of lumber has almost doubled. Real estate is selling for prices which would have been greeted with scorn had they been asked in 1939. Some textiles have almost doubled in cost to the purchaser.

Despite these exceptions, the W.P.T.B. has acted in a manner which has maintained public confidence. The public has grumbled a bit at some directives but generally it has been a case of "they know best." Through newspaper advertisements and other means, the board has made its problems known and has asked the public to co-operate in their solution. The public has responded to this frankness by giving a full measure of co-operation. For example, the black market has been kept down because of the publie's recognition of the black market as a form of sabotage.

Even this co-operation would be lacking, however, did not Canadians realize that in the period of national emergency brought about by war, the utmost in individual effort was required if victory was to be achieved. In victory loans and other national campaigns, the response has been wholehearted. Canadians have demonstrated that they can act with unity of purpose in war. If the example they have set in the last six years will prevail, Canada will prosper in the difficult years still before us.

What Others Think

WHAT IS STOCK?

(Financial Post)

What is stock racketeering? What are operating methods generally connoted by that term? We object to misrepresentation in stock selling. Included in the many kinds and shades of misrepresentation are these: Giving false or grossly exaggerated information as to the stage of property development, such as suggesting that the property is a developed or nearly producing mine when it is still nothing but a piece of ground with none or only elementary development. Giving misleading information re location of the property and results at nearby properties.

Making or implying promises where fulfilment is not intended or is entirely unlikely, such as asserting that the stock will be shortly listed on a stock exchange; that profit is certain.

We object to misrepresentation as to the marketability of shares sold. The public is seldom aware that some unscrupulous operators may sometimes "make a market" in a new issue for history. just a few days, as a stock-selling device, then withdraw their market support later, leaving the public with something for which there is no market. As pointed out by New York's assistant attorney of the Stock Frauds Bureau: "Most sort or another. people who have been stung don't know it yet and won't know it until they need the money and try to sell their stocks."

We object to fake confirmations. This crooked trick involves sending the man who has said no to the salesman's proposition, an impressive Charter comes along, written in boys back from overseas. They "legal-looking" document along with a bill requesting payment for a certain number of shares tions determined that, God will- loveliest. It's up to us to see that as if the prospect had said yes; had agreed to the ing, there shall never again be the land they have dreamed of

We object to the faking, suppression and manipulation of mine development news. The public is defrauded if a snowstorm of mail, telegrams and tipster sheets proclaiming the spectacular, just-around-the-corner profit possibilities of a stock is sent out after the inside ring knows that the truth is indifferent. It is equally bad when the game is played the other way, spreading gloom before good news. Withholding information and falsifying information so that insiders can rig the market and arrange their personal affairs so as to make a killing is crooked.

We object to stock selling methods that include among the tools of persuasion so-called "independent" advisory services if the "independent" advice as to stock purchases is bought and paid for by the interested stock selling organization. We object to controlled and/or subsidized sheets posing as independent newspapers.

We object to the misuse of money collected for a tennis court. from the public through the sale of stock. We claim that funds are misused if most of them go into the pocket of the promoter and into stock selling expenses, and if only a small proportion goes into actual testing and developing a mine property.

By no means do we suggest that all mining 28, also 16-4. promotion and stock selling is interlarded with these practices. Canada needs more honest-togoodness promoters who will speed development days in town this week visiting of our natural resources. Canadian development needs more poeple who can and will risk some of their savings in these inevitably risky ventures. Giving the speculator a fair run for his money is in our opinion, the best way to speed national development .

The speculator, the man willing to take big risks with his savings, has played the dynamic role in the swift development of his country. Today as much as ever Canada needs speculators. day and visited friends. Premier Drew and men of his Cabinet have, both in private and in public life, demonstrated burton. energetic and conscientious zeal for the public welfare. VOCATIONAL TRAINING

EDUCATION VERSUS

With all this discussion on vocational training, there is a real danger that well meaning progressives may be misled into believing that this emphasis upon the practical in education is a good thing for the masses. To the contrary, we must never lose sight of the fact that the primary concern of schools is to provide instruction in those branches of learning which train and discippline the mind and give it a wide outlook on the various activities of life.

The provision of training along occupational lines to turn out specialists in particular professions or trades is of secondary concern. In other words we must Lewis (hon.), Beth McPhee, carefully define between a liberal Myrtle MacMillan (hon.), Gloria education and mere technical Shropshire (hon.), Bradley Wal-training. If the schemes of the ker (hon.), Helen Watt (hon.), so-called realists succeed in relegating to the limbo the study of philosophy, sociology, pure Carol Creed (hon.), Margaret science, fine arts, literature and Ann Crowder (hon.), Marion history, then 95 percent of us Gibson will become merely unenlighten-(hon.), ed technicians. Millions of People in Liberated

NEVER in our history has the need for food been so desperate as it is today. We need food to feed our fighting men ... to feed our Allies who burned their fields to halt the enemy . . . to feed you and us here at home. Short of help ... short of machinery ... the Ontario farmer needs every available hand he can get! So plan now to devote whatever time you can to helping on the farms this summer. Every possible man-hour MUST be put in - join the thousands of young men and women who, though regularly engaged in other work offer their spare time to helping local farmers with the haying, hoeing, and harvesting.

If possible, make your own arrangements with relatives or friends who might have a farm of their own, to help out during peak seasons. Those who have no farmer relatives or friends should contact their local Farm Commando Brigade or write direct to the Ontario Farm Service Force, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Standard wages are paid to all Farm Commandos.

able to be present, informed the ket. council that recommendations should reach the royal commission on education by September, and that the public school board should have its joint meeting with the high school board to consider recommendations as soon as possible.

Members of the board thought that there might be some change in inspection methods. They thought that inspectors were inclined to say that all was well, and not to offer sufficient criticisms and suggestions.

"We should have young men as inspectors," said Mr. Renzius. There was also discussion of a forecast that a B.A. degree might become an Ontario public school teaching requirement.

A long list of suggested repairs 178 and improvements, read by compiled when board members made their annual inspection of strain. the schools.

"One-Way" Farming for Profit

A striking example of the effectiveness of a machine, in helping farmers operate successfully under difficult conditions, is found in the One-Way Disc. Introduced during the drought spell and period of low prices for farm products, it helped farmers cut down their production costs, thereby leaving them more margin for profit.

It is little wonder then that the One-Way Disc Seeder speedily became one of the most popular machines on the market. Preparing the soil and sowing the seed in one operation, the One-Way Disc Seeder saves time and expense. Used as a tillage machine it destroys weeds and leaves the land in a condition to resist soil drifting. In effect the One-Way Disc offers the usefulness of two machines at little more cost than the price of one.

In design and construction the MASSEY-HARRIS One-Way Disc offers special advantages that appeal to users. The sturdy frame construction, long wear replaceable bearings, patented stone jumper, easily adjusted direct draft hitch, and quick action power lift are features that contribute to the popularity of the MASSEY-HARRIS. Your local dealer will be glad to give you full particulars.

Feed SHUR-GAIN Hog Concentrate for Bigger Profits

Hog Producers are aware that there is more to hog production than grain feeding alone. Wise farmers have come to recognize the fact that it takes 1,100 lbs. of straight grain to finish a hog in 71/2 to 8 months of feeding. But when only 50 lbs. of SHUR-GAIN 41% Hog Concentrate is added to their ration, only 650 lbs. of grain are needed, and hogs finish better, with higher grades in only 51/2 to 6 months.

You save weeks of feeding, you save 450 lbs. of grain, and you save many hours of work per hog, by feeding them the Balanced, SHUR-GAIN Way! And you'll like the way your hogs grade out! More select grades at marketing mean More Profits for You. For bigger and better profits this year, resolve Now to feed the profitable, economical, SHUR-GAIN
